

Red Bank Regional High School

Virtual School Instructional Plan Parents & Students

Introduction

Red Bank Regional High School (RBRHS) is dedicated to the continuity of instruction, especially when emergent conditions require alternate plans. In the event of extenuating circumstances, RBRHS will adopt a virtual school platform, which is a way for instruction to continue while students are unable to attend school due to campus closure. While the virtual school platform is not intended to replace the traditional classroom environment, teachers will still be able to deliver standards-based instruction to students in an online environment until the normal school schedule can resume.

The purpose of this document is to outline how RBRHS will continue to provide instruction in a virtual school format while a traditional classroom setting is otherwise not recommended. The plan outlines roles and responsibilities for all community stakeholders, as the success of the virtual school model will be dependent upon the dedication of faculty/staff, students, parents, and district administration.

This plan has been developed in accordance with the NJ Department of Education broadcast on March 5, 2020. This virtual school plan exceeds the minimum 10 hour weekly requirement.
